The Boy Who Works.

Do you feel young fellow, that you have a hard time? You hours are long, your task is hard and the way is hard. The contents of your pocket envelope will scarce last over the week. Sometimes you must wear patched trousers or a tattered coat. Your employer exacts a great deal from you. Other boys dress well and always have money. They have comfortable homes and mothers while you live days a week to make ends meet.

Never a strong man. You are ahead of him who has every luxury. You are getting experience, but you get some how in the same place, sooner or later, he gets it. It is a real battle of life. You have the advantage, your life has been made easy. The jacks drill and discipline which every life-soldier must go through. You are preparing yourself. He may go in without preparation and fail. Work is a great blessing. You cannot see now, but some day you will say that you were fortunate in your boyhood days because you were compelled to work. Because you cannot get power to do things by doing them. Look over the successful men you know. Get their history. Nearly every one was compelled to work in boyhood. They toughened their muscles by hard work and sharpened their brains by looking out for themselves.

Work makes men. Luck usually fails. Pluck nearly always wins. To succeed in anything one must overcome obstacles. Force and fibre are built by hardships. Grit is as necessary in the making of a man as gumption. Hardships are not always handicaps. Often they are helps. You will understand this better in twenty years. Meantime permit one who has lived that twenty years and more, to advise you in this. Hang onto your job until you are sure of a better one. Dependable boys are in demand. And no boy can be depended upon who does not finish the task he sets his hand to do. However disagreeable your work, do it thoroughly. Do it better than the average boy will do it. In that way you will come to be known as a dependable boy. And find you this: Men everywhere are looking for capable, honest, fit, dependable boys. The sooner you let people know that you are that kind of a boy, the sooner you will get a better job, and don't be in a hurry to give up the work you already have. Be something better is offered, wait awhile. Do your work well. Promotion will come. And not envy the boy who has an easy time. You would much better like him. He has a good time, but some day he must take good. With his happy natures and easy habits and his many wants he stands a far poor chance than you. Remember above all, young fellow, you are taking a man out of yourself.

Fraud Exposed.

A few counterfeits have lately been making and trying to sell imitations of Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds and other medicines, thereby defrauding the public. This is to warn you to beware of such people, who seek to profit through stealing the reputation of remedies which have been successfully curing disease, for over 35 years. A sure protection to you, is our name on the wrapper. Look for it on all Dr. King's or Bucklin's remedies, as all others are mere imitations. H. E. BUCKLEN & CO., Chicago, Ill. and Windsor, Canada.

The yellow fever situation is causing great alarm throughout the South. There have been more than 500 cases to date and over 100 deaths. It is not probable that it will reach Kentucky, as vigorous measures are being used to prevent it spreading.

Given Up to Die.

B. Spiegel, 1201 N. Virginia St., Evansville, Ind., writes: For over five years I was troubled with kidney and bladder affections which caused me much pain and worry. I lost flesh and was all run down, and a year ago had to abandon work entirely. I had three of the best physicians who did me no good and I was practically given up to die. Foley's Kidney Cure was recommended and the first bottle gave me relief and after taking the second bottle I was entirely cured." Jackson Drug Co.

The Russian and Japan Peace Commissioners have met at Portsmouth, N. H., and have begun their deliberations. They were introduced to each other last Saturday by President Roosevelt on board the ship Mayflower.

Fortunately I insisted upon having Foley's Honey and Tea and it cured me. My wife has since used Foley's Honey and Far with the same success." Jackson Drug Co.

Unique Trade Mark.

A Blue Grass Belle bursting through a heart will be the trademark for the State Fair. The design will first appear on the envelopes issued for the catalogues. The design is the creation of Albert McMichael, of Smith's Commercial College. It is pronounced by all who have seen it the neatest design ever gotten up for a fair, and is something distinctly new.

It is printed in two colors, red and black. The heart is red, and the Blue Grass Belle bursts forth from the center of the heart as fresh looking as a rose, wearing a big hat decorated with plumes.

On the heart is inscribed "In the heart of the Blue Grass Kentucky State Fair, Lexington, September 18 to 23."

A MURDERER'S DEATH.

[WRITTEN FOR THE NEWS.]

The summer sun was sinking In stillness towards the west—The stars began their blinking And the laborers went to rest.

Dark, flying clouds o'er spread the sky,

The lightning flashed and gleamed,

And the wind did scream, and moan and cry,

Which made the forest scream.

It could not surely be the wind

Which made that moaning yell,

Which sounded like some horrid fiend

Released from blazing hell.

The moaning yell soon ceased to rise

Upon the evening air,

But was changed to pitying cries Of woeful, dire despair.

Two passers-by soon heard the sound.

And from the woods they took A by-path down the stream and found

A man sunk in the brook.

His pleading eyes turned to the stranger's.

And hope his soul did fill,

But soon they left him in his danger,

Because 'twas "Murdering Bill."

Ten thousand blows his hand had dealt;

Twelve was his number slain,

But more than this his pain had felt

And heard him speak profane.

Though many times he was outnumbered

By men both bold and strong;

But escape was his, and while they slumbered,

He committed deeds past wrong.

Tonight this outlaw was dying

Beneath the cruel wave,

And the only thing that made him sighing

Was that water should be his grave.

The morning found a lifeless heap

Upon the rocky shore,

But never person tried to weep,

Because Bill's days were o'er.

In the country church yard he was laid,

Beneath the turf sod.

Do you suppose he was afraid To face his living God?

If I could answer for him now

In worth of truth and right,

I guess to God he'd gladly bow

And hard the devil fight.

A Warning to Mothers.

Too much care can not be used with small children during the hot weather of the summer months to guard against bowel troubles. As a rule it is only necessary to give the child a dose of castor oil to correct any disorder of the bowels. Do not use any substitute, but give the old-fashioned castor oil and see that it is fresh, as rancid oil nauseates and has a tendency to gripe. If this does not check the bowels give Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and then a dose of castor oil, and the disease may be checked in its incipiency and all danger avoided. The castor oil and this remedy should be procured at once and kept ready for instant use as soon as the first indication of any bowel trouble appears. This is the most successful treatment known and may be relied upon with implicit confidence even in cases of cholera infantum. For sale by the Jackson Drug Co.

CATERPILLARS AND LAW.

[Actions Against the Insects in the Courts of France.]

In the year 1545 the owners of the vineyards of St. Julian, Savoy, France, solemnly took action in the law courts against a host of hungry caterpillars which had played havoc with their vines. This grave matter was referred to arbitration and came in due course before the bishop as ecclesiastical judge.

Two lawyers were retained in the interest of the insect ravagers, letters admonishing them to desist and to discontinue their mischief were issued, and a commission sat to estimate the damage done. The judge held that no hasty decision should be given, since it was possible that the caterpillars had not acted maliciously, but had been sent as a scourge.

At the end of a year from the first proceedings it was held that the farmers must submit to the infliction and pay all costs. After an interval of forty-two years another army of caterpillars invaded the vineyards, another action was brought, and it was decided that they were only exercising their legal rights, while the owners were advised to provide a piece of land where they might range at will.

Another Good Man Gone Wrong

He neglected to take Foley's Kidney Cure at the beginning of kidney trouble having no faith in it. He was away and had been menaced by foes, even if it remained British at all; Napoleon would never have met his Waterloo, and England might have become an appanage of France. All this turned upon the decision of a schoolboy.

Agonizing Burns

are instantly relieved and perfectly healed by Bucklen's Arnica Salve. C. Rivenbark, Jr., of Norfolk Va., writes: "I burnt my knee dreadfully; that it blistered all over. Bucklen's Arnica Salve stopped the pain and healed it without a scar." Also heals all wounds and sores. 25¢ at the Jackson Drug Co.

TYPICAL FRENCH CHILD.

[The Everyday Life of a Girl Eleven Years of Age.]

Let me take Felice Bouanger (which is her name as a typical French child of my experience, gained after nearly three years' residence in France).

She is one of five children ranging in age from her brother of sixteen to the youngest girl of six. Felice has a skin like that of a pearl which is marvelous considering the amount of indigestible food she bolts five times a day; big, deerlike eyes, long lashes; daintily shaped but seldom clean hands; a thin, rasping and petulant voice even in her merriest mood, and a physique that of a starved and homeless cat—narrow chested, spider legged and stampinously generally. Yet she seems full of vitality—nervous irritable vitality—eats as much food as an English navy, and certainly lies, as my American lady friend says, "heaps of sense." But to see the child eating is painful, though interesting in a way.

An English girl of eleven years of age, like Felice, would be sent to bed at, say, 9 o'clock. Felice and her type and her younger sisters sit down to dinner at 6:30 p.m. and stay up until 11 or later, listening to the conversation of their elders.—Louis Becke in London Mail.

Grave Trouble Foreseen.

It needs but little foresight to tell that when your stomach and liver are badly affected, grave trouble is ahead unless you take the proper medicine for your disease, as Mrs. John A. Young, of Clay, N. Y., did. She says:

"I had neuralgia of the liver and stomach, heartburn, as weakened and could not eat. I was very bad for a long time, but in Electric Bitters I found just what I needed, for they quickly relieved and cured me." Best medicine for weak women. Sold and guaranteed by the Jackson Drug Co.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

FOR ASSESSOR.
We are authorized to announce
JOHN E. STRONG
as a candidate for Assessor of Breathitt county, subject to the action of the Republican party.

FOR SHERIFF.
I am a candidate for Sheriff of Breathitt County at the coming November election.
BRECK CRAWFORD
Cope Branch, Ky.

FOR JAILER.
We are authorized to announce
LEWIS GROSS,
of Elkatawa, as a candidate for the office of Jailer of Breathitt county, subject to the action of the Republican party.

FOR COUNTY ATTORNEY.
We are authorized to announce
S. B. MINIX
as a candidate for Jailer, subject to the action of the Republican party.

FOR COUNTY ATTORNEY.
We are authorized to announce
ROBERT BOARK
as a candidate for County Attorney of Breathitt county at the November election, 1905.

Breathitt County can be redeemed. Let everybody put his shoulder to the wheel and work till a change is made.

Reforms are never made by the men who brought about the conditions that make a reform necessary. We must have a change.

A vote will be taken at the November election on an amendment to the Constitution to substitute the old viva voce system of voting in the place of the present secret ballot.

The taxpayers of Breathitt county are paying more than $5,000 a year over what is necessary for the expenses of the county. Why collect this money from the people who need it for themselves and their families?

What Kentucky Needs.

We want immigration, capital and enterprise to come South and take hold, amongst other things, of Kentucky's resources and make this State what it should be—the peer of any in the Union in point of wealth, culture and contentment. Can we get these agencies to visit and improve us while we let the blood of our sons flow in such copious streams at murders' deadly and cruel decree?

All well enough to talk of Kentucky's goodness and greatness.
But what are we? Our wife off the red stalks grows from the surface of the earth. The good Kentuckian is the best specimen of manhood ever seen; the mean Kentuckian as bad as ever Old Nick turned out of his kilns. We shall not make Kentucky what it ought to be by boasting of what it is. There are evils in our midst so grievous as to call for the united efforts of all true Kentuckians to remove. Details to talk, are required. The time needed most urgently at hand.

The election is here of the best men to fill the offices.

The enforcement of the laws by office-holders without fear or favor toward any one.

The happiness and freedom of the people firmly maintained.

The expression of the will of the people in carrying fire arms.

The showing of respect for human life by home, school, pulpit and press.

A good many hangings for the next five years or so of assassins, whether their political pull be strong or slight.—Louisville Herald.

DRAGGING

down pains are a symptom of the most serious trouble which can attack a woman, viz: falling of the womb. With this, generally, come irregular, painful, scanty or profuse periods, wasteful, weakening drains, dreadful backache, headache, nervousness, dizziness, irritability, tired feeling, inability to walk, loss of appetite, color and beauty. The cure is

WINE OF CARDUI

THE FEMALE REGULATOR,

that marvelous, curative extract, or natural wine, of herbs, which exerts such a wonderful, strengthening influence on all female organs. Cardui relieves pain, regulates the menses, stops drains and stimulates the womb muscles to pull the womb up into place.

It is a sure and permanent cure for all female complaints.

A Big Suit.

Y., asking for an injunction against the Breathitt Coal, Iron & Lumber Co. to restrain them from cutting timber on certain lands in this county claimed by plaintiffs and defendants. O. H. Pollard represents the plaintiffs in the action. A large amount of property is involved and the decision will go a long ways toward settling certain titles in this county.

The Best Ever.

The base ball game played here Saturday between the Campion club and the Jackson nine was the best game of the season. At the close of the ninth inning the game was a tie, with only one score to each of the teams. The Campion made one run in the tenth inning on an error of one of our boys and thus won the game. There was not a single dispute nor was the decision of the umpire, Mr. G. G. Brown, questioned in a single instance. This was a good game and very much enjoyed by all who attended.

Meanwhile my friend and I did not were enough to keep us in good cheer. There was William McClellan, a Scotchman of a great gift of dignity and a nickname inseparably connected with his name. He wrote leaders for a big weekly and was known as "Waxy" McClellan to honor a pale ear of wax that took the place of a member lost, which could tell how. He drank deeply at times, but never to the loss of his dignity or self-possession. In his cups the natural dignity of the man grew and expanded. One could tell the extent of his indulgence by the degree of his dignity. Then his mood became at once didactic and devotional. Indeed, I learned in good time of the rumor that he had lost his ear in an argument about the Scriptures over at Edinburgh.

I remember he came one evening soon after my arrival at the chalet when dinner was late. His dignity was at the full. He sat awhile in grim silence, while a sense of injury grew in his bosom.

"Mrs. Opper," said he in a grandiose manner and voice that nicely trilled the r's, "In the fourth chapter and ninth verse of Lamentations you will find these words": Here he raised his voice a bit and began to tap the palm of his left hand with the index finger of his right, continuing, "They that be slain with the sword are better than they that die a death with hunger, for these pine away, stricken through want of the spirit of the flesh." Upon my honor as a Scotman, Mrs. Opper, I was never so ill in all my life." The other was a Remond, a rather frail man, with a low, rough and a confidential manner. He wrote the "Obituaries of Distinguished Persons" for one of the daily papers. Somebody had told him once his head resembled that of Washington. He had never forgotten it, as I have reason to remember. His mind lived ever among the dead. His tongue was pickled in maxims; his heart sunk in the brine of recollection; his humor not less unconscious and familiar than that of an epithet. His name was Lemuel Franklin Force. To the public of his native city he had introduced Webster one Fourth of July—a perennial topic of his lighter moments.

CHAPTER XXIII.

I WAS soon near out of money and at my wits' end, but my will was unconquerable. In this plight I ran upon Fogarty, the po-faced man who had been the good angel of my one hopeful day in journalism. His manner invited my confidence.

"What luck?" said he. "Only $10 in my pocket and nothing to do."

He swung his stick thoughtfully.

"If I was you," said he, "I'd take anything honest. Upon my word, I'd rather pound rocks than lie idle."

"So would I!"

"Wud ye?" said he, with animation, as he took my measure from head to foot.

"I'll do an' see that's honest."

"Ah, ha!" snorted, rubbing his sandy chin whiskers. "Don't seem like ye'd been used t' hard warruk."

"But I can do it," I said.

He looked at me sternly and beckoned with his head.

"Come along," said he.

He took me to a gang of Irishmen working in the street near by.

"Boss McCormick!" he shouted.

A hearty voice answered, "Aye, aye, counselor!" and McCormick came out of the crowd, using his shovel for a staff.

"A happy day to all! Fogarty."

"Same t' youse all, any o' thim!" said McCormick, sanguineous.

"Ye'll giv me and er do me a favor," said Fogarty well.

"An' what?" said Fogarty.

"A job for the Sub Rosa! Yule do it?"

"I will," said that arrick. And he did.

I went to work by the next morning with nothing but a pair of gloves that cost me the ridicule of my fellows. Fogarty, Ivory, and the righteous combination of evangels &c a day I began to feel a malignant kick of "pounding rock" to my merriment, I assure you, for a hot minute. Day on Manhattan Island.

We were passing Park place, where we had to break stone and lay them and shovel dirt and dig with a pick and crowbar.

My face and neck were burned crimson when we would work at 5, and I went home with a feeling of having been run over by the cars. I am a strong sense of soul and body, the latter dominated by a mighty appetite. McClellan viewed me at first with suspicion but there was a faint flavor of envy. He invited me once to his room and was amazed at seeing it was no lark. I told him frankly what I was doing and why and where.

"I won't mind the loaning of a few dollars," he said. "As a matter of personal obligation I would be most happy to do it—most happy. Brower, I trust you."

I thanked him cordially, but declined the favor for at home they had always taught me the danger of borrowing and I was bound to have it out with Mr. Brower on my own resources.

"Greville is back," said he, "and I shall see him tomorrow. I will bring him in to you."

I went away sore in the morning, but with no drooping spirit. In the middle of the afternoon I straightened up a moment to ease my back and look about me.

There on the edge of the gang stood the great former Greville and Waxy McClellan. The latter beckoned me as he came. I went aside to get them off before they gave me his num.

"Do you know Rio tell me that you're rather workin' a leg or borrow?" said he.

"That's about it," I answered.

"And ain't ashamed of it?"

He sat at the head of the table next to him. I remebered by the day's burdenosa and Wattle, friends and relatives, and redined his dinner into a hash of tattos, squash and parsnips will be prepared with a spoon. After dinner, he often with his left forearm resting on the table. It was the custom of the day, as Mr. Deacon learned it, to write letters to Shannan and Lillie Jackson, after his visitation with them. I confess they

CALIFORNIA

Do you want to live where the climate is mild the year round—where labor is never oppressed by stress of weather, and where animal vitality is never lost by mere conflict with cold?

Do you want to live in a region where the resources are more varied than in any other equal area in the world, where the division of great ranches affords a fine opportunity to get a small farm that will assure you a competence?

Do you want to live where, with a minimum of labor, you can grow profitable crops of grapes and small fruit, oranges, lemons, olives, prunes and almonds, alfalfa and grain, where crops are sure, business is good and capital easily finds profitable investment?

Then go to California, where both health and opportunity await your coming.

The Chicago, Union Pacific and North-Western Line is the most direct route to the Pacific Coast, and there are two fast through trains daily via this line, over the famous double-track railway between Chicago and the Missouri River.

Special low round-trip rates are in effect via this line throughout the summer to various Pacific Coast points, and colonist low rate one-way tickets will be on sale during September and October, which give an unusual chance for settlers to make the trip at a minimum of expense.

Daily and personally conducted excursions are operated through to San Francisco, Los Angeles, and Portland without change, on which a double berth in a Pullman tourist sleeping car from Chicago costs only $7.00, via the saw an absent look in his eye and stopped talking, because I thought he had ceased to listen.

"Very well, very well!" said he.

I looked up at him, not knowing what he meant.

"Go on! Tell me all about it," he added.

"I like the country best," said he when I had finished, "because there I see more truth in things. Here the lie has many forms—unique, varied, ingenious. The rouge and powder on the lady's cheek—they are lies, both of them the baronial and ducal crests are lies, and the fool who uses them are liars; the people who seek themselves in rum have nothing but lies in their heads; the multitude who live by their wits and the lack of them in others—they are all liars; the many who imagine a vain thing and pretend to be what they are not—liars, every one of them. It is bound to be so in the great cities, and it is a mark of decay. The skirt! I say! Elegabulus, the wigs and rouge petticoat of Mme. Pompadour, the crucifix of Machiavelli and the innocent smile of Fernando Wood stand for something terribly and vastly false in the people about them. For truth you've got to get back into the woods. You can find men there a good deal as God made them—gentile, strong and simple. When those men cease to come here you'll see grass growing in with her. We feel grateful for the benefit derived from its use, and would not be without it." Said by M. S. Crane.

And then they went away.

If I had been a Knight of the Garter I could not have been treated with more distinguished courtesy by those hard-handed men the rest of the day. I bade them goodby at night and got my order for $4. One Pat Devlin, a great hearted Irishman who had shars.

Take Kodol After Eating

After a hearty meal a dose of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure will prevent an attack of indigestion. Kodol is a thorough digestant and a guaranteed cure for indigestion, dyspepsia gas on the stomach, weak heart, sour risings, bad breath and all stomach troubles. L. A. Soper, of Little Rock, Ky., says: Kodol Dyspepsia Cure deserves all the commendation that can be given it, when I saw the life of our little girl when she was three years old. She is now six and we have kept it for her constantly, but of course, she only takes it now when anything disagrees with her. We feel grateful for the benefit derived from its use, and would not be without it." Said by M. S. Crane.

One bottle of Smith's Kidney and Nerve Tonic cured Marion Hall of a weak back. It was so bad that he couldn't get up when he sat down without being in continuous rack of misery for at least one hour. Sold by S. H. Stidham & Son, Jackson, Ky.

I made no answer, and the great commoner stirred his coffee a moment in silence.

"Vanity is the curse of cities," he continued, "and Flattery is its handmaiden. Vanity, Flattery and Deceit are the three disgraces. I like a man to be what he is—out and out. If he's ashamed of himself it won't be long before his friends will be ashamed of him. There's the trouble with this town. Many a fellow is pretending to be what he isn't. A man cannot be strong unless he is genuine."

One of his children—a little girl—came and stood close to him as he spoke. He put his big arm around her, and that gentle, permanent smile of his broadened as he kissed her and patted her red cheek.

"Anything new in the south?" Mrs. Coquelin inquired.

"Worse and worse every day," he said. "Serious trouble coming. The Charleston dinner yesterday was a feast of treason and a flow of criminal rhetoric. The Union was the chief dish. Everybody slashed it with his knife and jabbed it with his fork. It was slaughtered, roasted, made into mincemeat and devoured, made into fritters and eaten. The orator spoke of 'rolling back the tide of fanaticism that finds its root in the conscience of the people.' These metaphors are as bad as their morals."

One of his children—a little girl—came and stood close to him as he spoke. He put his big arm around her, and that gentle, permanent smile of his broadened as he kissed her and patted her red cheek.

COQUELIN'S REPLY.

How the French Actor Cut into the Sub Rosa Club.

One of the most famous of the Quartier Latin clubs in Paris is the one which is called the Sub Rosa.

The elder Coquelin, the great actor, was present one night at the club's weekly feast and applied for membership. Now, the only rule of the Sub Rosa men are: "Think much. Write little. Be as silent as you can." The presiding officer, with this last rule in mind, answered the applicant by placing before him a tumbler filled so full of water that another drop would have caused it to run over. Coquelin understood. The club membership was obviously out.

Over the table was suspended a rose, the club emblem. While the glass still stood before him, Coquelin broke a petal from the stem and let it gently on the water; allowing a single drop to escape. The man understood.

Around a bushel of petals were scattered on the floor.

John W. Deacon gave me a place at once on the local staff and invited me to dine with him at his home that evening. Meanwhile he sent me to the headquarters of the Republican central campaign committee on Broadwater, opposite the New York hotel. Lincoln had been nominated in May, and the great political fight of 1860 was shaking the city with its thunder.

I turned in my copy at the city desk in good season, and although the great editor had not yet left his room, I took a car at once to keep my appointment. A servant showed me to a seat in the big back parlor of Mr. Greeley's home, where I spent a lonely hour before I heard his heavy footsteps in the hall. He immediately rushed upstairs, two steps at a time, and in a moment I heard his high voice greeting the babies. He came downstairs with one of them clinging to his waist.

"Thunder!" he bellowed. "I will put you to bed now."

He sat at the head of the table next to him. I remembered by the day's burdenosa and Wattle, friends and relatives, and redined his dinner into a hash of tattos, squash and parsnips will be prepared with a spoon. After dinner, he often with his left forearm resting on the table.
